Cathy's Four-Way Bargello Patterns Page This is a pattern called "Spanish Tiles," a variation on various pinwheel/flower/diamond multiple four-way patterns. Each "tile" (or pinwheel or diamond, whatever) is the center of a four-way pattern that blurs into the next four-way section of the canvas.

The Best Four-way Bargello Ever! â€“ Nuts about Needlepoint Four-way Bargello is something Iâ€™m not great at, but I did manage somewhat to conquer it with Pat Mazuâ€™s lovely project from the ANG Chapter Project book, now Iâ€™m ready to try something more challenging. I think Iâ€™m going to make mine mostly in blue with bright red accents. Four-way Bargello â€“ All about Needlepoint Four-way Bargello takes a basic Bargello line and turns it along the diagonal lines of the area, turning it from a line into a square. Even the simplest Bargello lines get great sophistication from being turned and the resulting shapes and patterns are very compelling. Reading Four-way Bargello Charts â€“ Nuts about Needlepoint Virtually all four-way patterns have the same thing in the middle, a plus sign (+) where four stitches meet. If you think about how a four-way pattern is made, this makes sense. A Bargello pattern, such as the one below, is rotated on the diagonals.

An Introduction to Four-way Bargello --- Part I | Cuttings ... The picture below shows a vintage four-way bargello pillow that I made in the 1970's, when I was just learning the technique. Some four-way patterns appear to continue past the edges of the canvas, but I chose to emphasize this one by using a solid color, closely related to the color of the pillow's backing, around it. Bargello (Canvaswork) â€“ Save the Stitches by Nordic Needle Four-way Bargello is created by dividing your canvas up into four segments. Find your center point and then go out diagonally to the four corners. You might be tempted to use a ruler to do this, but you may find your canvas mesh was not entirely square and your stitches will end up in the wrong spots.
